CONSTITUTION FOR ALPHA CHI DELTA READ TO SOCIETY

Requirements for Entrance into Honorary Society Are Explained

The constitution of the Alpha Chi Delta, honorary dramatic art society, was read at a recent meeting of the Dramatic Art club by the president, Miss Mary Wilkins, Chicago.

The purpose of the dramatic art honorary society is to cultivate a taste for the best in drama and to loster the cultural values which the drama develops; to add to the equipment for dramatics at Clarke College that the art of acting may flourish, and finally to bestow honor upon those students doing a high standard of work in dramatics.

A student is eligible for memberresidence at Clarke College, who is recommended by the Dean of the college and who has completed the following requirements:

1. Who has done creditable work in a leading role or participated in two major roles, or a number of roles equivalent to two major roles.

a. A student who has written a play which has been presented to the public or to the college may substitute this for one major role. 2. Who has had experience in the following mechanics:

a. Stage manager.

b. Assistant manager. c. Costume crew.

Make up crew.

There will be at least three regular meetings of the society each year — initiation and nomination, election of officers and an elaborate social function which will be held during the second semester in conjunction with the dramatic art club.

Students having fulfilled the requirements will receive a formal invitation to join the Alpha Chi Delta, honorary dramatic art society.

After the meeting an informal luncheon was served. The Misses Corinne Mitchell, Washington. D. C., and Mary Helen Baker, Brookville, Ind., presided at the tea table.

Language Department Announces Plays

The Romance language department, as represented by the French and Spanish circles has prepared a program of a series of one act plays to be presented in the two tongues respectively at various times during

The first of this series, "Le Pate et la Tarte" was given by the French circle Thursday, Feb. 27. The cast included Ruth Cannon, Kansas City; Rosemary Dempsey, Chicago; Ann Norton, Dubuque; and Eleanore Fordan, Chicago.

Sodality Begins Monsieur Beaucaire New Mission Activity

Affiliation With Students' Mission Crusade Proposed to Student Body

The Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary at Clarke College has recently made application to become affiliated with the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade, the headquarters of which are at Crusade Castle, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Prayer for the missions, a systematic study of the missions, and the support of them in the spirit of sacrifice and devotion is the threefold purpose of the Catholic Stu-dents' Mission Crusade. Membership in the Crusade may be obtained by ship in this society whose scholar-ship averages B rating, who carries ten or more semester hours during ganization or club. The archbishopelect of Dubuque, Francis J. Beckman, D. D., is chairman of the execu-tive board of the Crusade. After the organization of the Mission work in 1918, Most Reverend F. J. Beckman travelled through the country making prolific lectures on the subject. and in 1925 went to Rome to present the work to the Holy Father who made it a Pontifical Society with His Eminence, William Cardinal Van Rossum as the Cardinal Protector.

> During its years of existence the Catholic Students Mission has grown to the membership of 500,000 students from approximately 2500 institutions in the United States. The Crusade is recognized as one of the greatest aids for the spread of interest in mission work. The organization of the Crusade is based on the motif of chivalry, the ceremonies be-ing in keeping with this idea.

> In about forty diocese and archdiocese of the country, the Crusade has been adopted as the official students' auxiliary of the Propagation of the Faith. The satisfaction of the Diocesan Directors has been expressed in numerous public utterances and writings, of which the following quotation from an editorial in the August (1929) issue of Catholic Missions is typical. Msgr. William Quinn, the Right Reverend National Director of the Society of the Propagation of the Faith, writes: "As far as the Society of the Propagation of the Faith is concerned, we hold that the educational and stimulating character of the Crusade is our best asset towards building intelligent and hence durable interest in mis-sion activities."

Students to Attend Music Convention

Members of the faculty of the Conservatory of Music of Clarke College and nine students will attend the second biennial meeting of the national conference of music supervisors to be held in Chicago, March 23-The students will register at the Stevens hotel, headquarters of the Special features of the program for the week are a concert by the Chicago symphony orchestra, and a chorus of all Chicago high school pupils.

Students who will attend are: the Missos Camille Nolan, Davenport, Dorothy Ritchie, Oclwein, Berna-dette Lusson, Cresco, Catherine Wessels, Muscatine, Alice Stapleton, Muscatine, Helen Condon, Chicago, Eleanor Fordan, Chicago, Eleanor Shaw, Pocahontas, and Bernadine liethke, Green, Iowa.

Senior Class Play

Monsieur Beaucaire, a dramatization by Ethel Hale Freeman, made from Booth Tarkington's novel and Dies Suddenly After 50 popularized by the late Richard Mansifield, will be the senior class play of 1930, to be presented in the Clarke College auditorium during commencement week.

Dramatized by Ethel Freeman with the consent of the author, the pub- 1:30 p. m. at Clarke college. lishers and his collaborators into a play of the same title, Monsieur Beaucaire is a comedy in three acts. It is produced by special arrangement with the Walter H. Baker Company of Boston, Mass.

The setting of the play is in Bath. England during the reign of Louis XV, who lived from 1715 to 1774 ascending the French throne at the age of five. England and France were commercially and politically united at this time which accounts for the French influences in the play.

The sets for the scenes will be arranged with period furniture, the costumes portraying the extreme richness and extravagance of attire which were indulged in at the time An English traveler wrote in 1740: "Both the ladies and gentlemendress and appear in styles of luxury and magnificence inspired by the ex travagance of political leaders drawing their inspiration from the court of France."

Oscar Ziegler, Concert Pianist, Gives Program

Oscar Ziegler, was heard in the initial musical, given in the Clarke College auditorium, Sunday evening. at 7:30, in a program that allowed full scope for his many sided talent. With a variety of moods, Mr. Ziegler had ample opportunity for the display of the most delicate touch of the fingers as well as the muscular power of the wrists. With mastery and charm the artist delighted the audience, arousing the interest of every listener.

The program was ingenious, most interesting and especially inspiring as the pianist is a master of rich contrasts and of clear cut style, a master of coloring, of inspiration, of Illustrated Lecture form and interpretation.

Symphony Orchestra After Easter

The concert in which the Tricity symphony orchestra is to present Miss Irene Ruppert, pianist and student of Clarke College, which was announced in the last issue of the Clarke Courier for March 2 has been postponed until after Easter,

The orchestra of forty-five pieces is conducted by Ludwig Becker, Chicago. Usually the concerts are given only in the three cities from which the personnel is chosen-Davenport, Rock Island and Moline. Their appearance here is looked forward to as a musical event of rare worth.

Folly of Ladies at Richmond Fair Has Happy Outcome As Opera Ends

Martha, Friedrich Von Flotow's comic romantic opera in four acts will be presented by the students of Clarke College in April.

The scene of this semi-serious opera, which was first performed at the Court Opera, Vienna, on November 25, 1847, is laid first in the castle of Lady Harriet, later in Richmond and environs, during the reign of Queen Anne. Martha is an elaboration of "Lady Henrietta," a ballet-pantomine with a text by M. de Saint-Georges and music by Flo-tcw. It was presented in Paris in 1844 and received such a favorable reception that Flotow studied it and found that the plot, which concerned the adventures of two disguised court ladies at a country fair, could be used in the construction of an opera. M. de Saint-Georges, at the entreaty of Flotow, rewrote the libretto for tyrical presentation. Flotow was de-lighted with it and finished the composition of the music in a fortnight.

Martha, also entitled "The Fair at Richmond", belongs to the "colora-tura" class but is composed under German traditions, It is deserving of the appellation of an "old favorite." The melody and harmony are vigorous, reaching exalted heights of inspiration and depths of musical

Needless to say there is much merrymaking and many serious predica-ments from which happily the characters succeed in extricating themselves. The opera ends as all join in a paean of joy at the happy outcome of the folly of two ladies at the Richmond fair.

Requiescat in Pace

There are flecting moments when great truths strike us with undeniable force, flooding mysteries with clear white light. We who may, afterwards, attempt to bring back that illumination and fail utterly. The brightness is gone, even for ourselves and yet, we know its truth because we have known it.

One of these brief moments of realization came to many of the soul of our dear Sister Mary Irenea. Like a flash, we understood the secret of religious vocations and the reason for the joy of fair fulfilling one faithfully. The soul had fled from the aged form living in the coffin and our thoughts inevitably turned to its desting her youth, her life—and her soul to a heavenly Spouse. We know that she was not afraid of age,—we know too that she greeted death gladly for it was bringing the perfection of the union she sought in her mystic espousal long ago. Her life had worn in immortality, a radiant ever-young soul to the Bridegroom who waits for her.

Yes, it has all been explained. We know now—why girls make the triple Vow,—we have caught the secret and it is ours though we may never be able to put it clearly in words to a baft the

Lent and Mortification

With the approach of Lent and in keeping with both the letter and the spirit of it, we logically begin to formulate a more systematic program of self-denial. Because of our youth, or for various other reasons, we may not be bound to the strict observance of the Lenten fast; but we are not thereby dispensed from the performance of penance and the practice of mortification. In fact we may truthfully say that during Lent we add to or intensify the ordinary mortification that in some degree or kind finds its place in the every-day schedule.

Young as we are, experience has taught us that, given the grace of God, we can only accomplish what is of obligation by a reasonable self-denial in regard to what is of choice; to abandon amb ourselves to the complete enjoyment of all that is lawful; all their ways to choose the lesser good in a mode of conduct means that sometimes we may very likely choose what is not fawful; all their ways to choose the lesser good in a mode of conduct means that puss sometimes we may very likely choose what is not good at all. In the strengthen us against a betrayal into wrong-doing.

Then there is the self-denial generously undertaken and performed in union with the sufferings of Our Lord, as expiation and atonement for past offenses—our own in particular; those of the world in general. Still another phase of mortification is the practiced capacity for detachment which out of pure love of Our with Him, and will seek out what ever may intensify and strengthen this intimacy.

But no matter what the immediate occasion for the exercise of mortification, the underlying motive must be love; and since atter the suffering, then our love will seek out the means that will enable day agree.
